As the pivot of international watch and jewellery brands, masterpiece by king fook strives to bring the world's top luxury jewellery pieces and watches to Hong Kong customers in order to meet their different needs. Cyrus, its exclusive Swiss independent watchmaker releases a new version of its innovative timepiece designed for enthusiasts of high-end exclusive mechanics this year: the Klepcys Vertical Skeleton Tourbillon.

Led by prolific master watchmaker, Mr. Jean-Francois Mojon, who is also the mastermind behind top-notch international watch brands. Cyrus timepieces are highly sought after by only the most sophisticated watch connoisseurs. Mojon has set out to renew the magic of the Klepcys Vertical Tourbillon, creating an interpretation that showcases the outstandingly innovative mechanism driving the watch. The tourbillon cage, placed in the middle of the dial is set on a vertical axis at a 90° angle. Painstaking studies by the technical team at Cyrus revealed that this angle ensures the tourbillon cage is almost always in vertical position when on the wrist, thereby optimising its performance in precision.

Spectacular and refined, the new Klepcys Vertical Skeleton Tourbillon allows fine watchmaking enthusiasts to dive right into the heart of the movement and enjoy the “dance” performed by its parts while reading off the retrograde time. All the visible elements on the “face” of the timepiece are positioned in such a way that ensure the design is perfectly symmetrical, and are set out in a three-dimensional architecture which adds further depth. The “beating heart” of the timepiece can also be seen from the case back.

The arched vertical bridge inspired by Leonardo da Vinci's bridge, decorated using the "microbillage" technique features bevelled, polished edges and frames the tourbillon cage which performs one full rotation in one minute. It harmoniously divides the dial into two equal parts, making it easier to read off the retrograde hours and minutes.

To the right, a DLC black arch shows a scale running from 0 to 60 and indicated the sweeping retrograde minutes with an exclusively sculpted hand. And the left-hand arch in white Arabic numerals, which features the same finish as the minutes, marks the retrograde jumping hours. The seconds can be read off the tourbillon cage thanks to small numbered blocks, with the 60 second highlighted in red. Between the two arches of the tourbillon bridge, a black DLC sphere set at 12 o'clock to displays the days of the watch's power reserve (1-4).

This masterpiece enclosed in a 44 mm cushion-shaped case. Featuring a hand-winding manufacture movement calibre CYR625, which with a double barrel offering more than a 100-hour power reserve. It has been painstakingly decorated to give the Klepcys Vertical Skeleton Tourbillon a sophisticated allure.

The Klepcys Vertical Skeleton Tourbillon is a limited edition manufactured in three versions. Only five pieces of each are available worldwide: in grade 5 titanium with black DLC treatment, in 4N rose gold and a two-tone version in 4N rose gold with black DLC titanium bezel. The watch is completed with a black alligator leather strap with a folding DLC titanium clasp for the titanium and two-tone versions. The model in 4N rose gold features a brown alligator leather strap, with a gold buckle.
